

Emily Bazelon defines what bullying is and, just as important, what it is not. She explores when intervention is essential and when kids should be given the freedom to fend for themselves.

Dr. Archibald Hart: This book will help you build a healthier post divorce life for your children so that they can be counted among those who not only survived divorce but became the better for it.

A psychologist and a physician join forces to tackle one of the most disturbing and misunderstood trends of our times – peers replacing parents in the lives of our children. They explain how “peer orientation” refers to the tendency of children and youth turning to their friends for direction, for values and a sense of right and wrong. This phenomenon undermines family cohesion and poisons the school atmosphere.

The official guide to parenting gifted kids from the nation's leading organization on gifted children The only book of its kind, this guidebook will allow parents to find the support and resources they need to help their children find success in school and beyond.

Leading stepfamily expert Ron L. Deal reveals the seven fundamental steps to blended family success and provides practical, realistic solutions to the issues you face as a step-family.

Dr. Sylvia Rimm gives parents 42 keys to bring them one step closer to helping unlock the potential of bright children.

Renowned therapist and educator Dr. Laura Berman gives you the tools to open up the lines of communication and make “the talk” a unique bonding experience for parent and child. Learn how to establish and share your family values around sex in every conversation, explain conception, birth, puberty and gender, and find ways to help your child develop a healthy, confident body image.

Joseph M. Primo gives you practical tools, up-to-date research, humor and helpful ways to create a safe space for age-appropriate grieving.

Dr. Alan Wolfelt offers parents/caregivers 100 practical, kid-friendly ideas for helping children mourn well so they can grow to live well and love again.

Psychotherapist and counselor Pat Thomas authors this reassuring picture book exploring the difficult issue of death for young children. This sensitive subject is looked at in a simple but realistic way to help children understand their loss and to come to terms with their feelings.

Leading stepfamily expert Ron Deal equips you to navigate the stepparenting mindfield with every advice on how to connect with your stepchildren, be a godly role model, and maintain a strong bond with your wife.

Ron Deal and Laura Petherbridge show you how to survive and thrive as a stepmom, including: how to be a positive influence on children who are torn between loyalty to their biological mom and to you. What to do when you feel rejected or lonely and when and how to step back during conflict and let your husband take the lead.

World-renowned Stanford University psychologist Carol Dweck, in decades of research on achievement and success, has discovered a truly groundbreaking idea—the power of our mindset. Dweck makes clear why praising our children’s intelligence and ability doesn’t foster self-esteem and lead to accomplishment but may actually jeopardize success. With the right mindset, we can motivate our kids and help them to improve in school as well as reach our own goals.

Elizabeth Crary introduces four levels of parenting that unfold between birth and when kids leave home. Knowing when to use each level—at what age and understand what circumstances—helps smooth the rough spots in family life. By changing your level of support as appropriate you will: reduce hassles between you and your child, help your child learn to motivate himself, reduce resistance to family rules, increase your child’s ability to make thoughtful decisions and counteract the tendency to overindulge your child.

In her uniquely warm and funny style, Lynda Madaras wrote these books especially for younger girls and boys to give them what they need to know to celebrate and accept the new and exciting changes that are happening to their bodies during puberty.

Pat Thomas, psychotherapist and counselor gives us superb information, in a simple and reassuring way to help younger children find out what a disability is, and learn how people deal with their disabilities to live happy and full lives.

A basic explanation of internet safety and cybercrime for middle school students (ages 9-12). Topics include: Computer Infectors, Computer Security, Fraud, Hoaxes, Lies, Manners, Online Safety, Parents and Adults, Piracy, Privacy, Respect and the Law, Strangers, Secrets, Spam, and Usernames and Passwords.

Gretchen Super offers us the first drug education series for children ages 5 – 8. It introduces important concepts of health and wellness, self-esteem and social responsibility. Most importantly this book gives children the encouragement and support that they need to say “No” to drug use, now and in the future.

This book is a must-read for all parents with children between the ages of five and seventeen. Whether your kids are toddlers or teens, it's never too early or too late to start talking about money and how to save, spend, and manage it wisely. Canada's most trusted financial writer Gordon Pape and his daughter Deborah Kerbel offer many delightful and humorous personal stories that will leave you laughing while you learn. Gordon and Deborah make it easy to raise money savvy kids!